

Buddha's Enlightenment Day Poem

December 11, 2016

by Zen Master Jeong Ji

May we be well this coming year.
May we find joy at every bend in the unknown road, knowing that we are emissaries of the cosmos and agents of incomparable change.

And if it should happen that we are not well for a time, now is still our time. In the midst of that contentious love and chaos, may we take shelter in listening; may our attention flower into a bright awakening for all.